

Have you decided yet?

The United Community Services Co-op recently e-launched our Passion For Work Week campaign, promoting February 11 to 15 as a week where organizations should take some time to reclaimed, rekindled or reignite the passion for their work.

Have you set a date for your organization to take part? What topic is slated to create impassioned conversation? Is an emerging leader taking the lead on the planning?

If you haven't yet decided what to do, it's not too late. Drop us a line at info@leading-change.ca if you need ideas. Even better, email us with what you plan to do so we can share it with others. Be creative. Now is the time!
